Breath of Fresh Air

Posted Friday, June 22, 2007 10:57:52 AM by Rachel Kurzius

Think that just because you're still alive you're getting enough oxygen? Maybe your lungs are satisfied with the tainted excuse for air you're providing them with, but your face definitely isn't. Luckily, face to face nyc spa has a new Super Charged Oxygen Facial ($160) to revitalize your flabby, fatigued skin. The facial begins to work its magic by purifying the skin, using a refining facial scrub mixed with lactic acid milky cleanser. Then, face to face uses hot towels, a double process of oxygen-based masks, and dynamic facial massages to get your blood flowing and allow for toxin removal. This 80-minute facial will do wonders for anyone's skin, but smokers, city slickers, and frequent-fliers should take special note.
